ABOUT US

PRO Padel Courts (PPC) is a complete Padel solution - a company based in the UK which has been developed to support the increased interest and impending growth of Padel across the UK, and beyond.

PPC's founder, Paul Regan, has worked in the global tennis industry for more than 25 years and has watched the growth of padel on the continent with interest. We also observed the quality of some of the cheaper courts installed in the UK and didn't feel that the construction was being built to a high enough standard for the UK market, and more importantly, the UK climate.

PPC installs high quality courts that are aesthetically stunning, provide world class playability and durability and are fit to withstand the British elements.

PPC is dedicated to supplying the very best quality courts and providing world class customer service and support, through its dedicated UK team. We will provide our customers with pre-purchase advice and assist them with business planning and revenue models, planning permission, securing funding, implementation and maintenance. We will help manage your project from start to finish.

Our British base also provides you with additional piece of mind as in the event that you require a replacement pane of glass, we will ensure that you have the court back up and running within days from our UK stock, and not having to wait 12+ weeks for it to be shipped from the continent, causing significant member dissatisfaction and damaging revenue loss.

PRO PADEL COURTS INSTALLATIONS - TESTIMONIAL

“The best courts we’ve played on....”

We identified PRO Padel Courts as a potential supplier of padel courts early on in my planning process because of Paul’s knowledge and connections, the quality of their courts, the prices quoted and his ready willingness to answer my many queries.

Throughout the design process Paul proved to be an invaluable sounding board and he also dealt with the sourcing of a suitable groundworks contractor, provided a detailed specification, bill of quantities and drawings for the foundations and negotiated with the selected contractor to keep the prices as reasonable as possible in the post Covid period when construction costs were escalating daily.

The courts have now been completed and everyone who has played on them report that they are the best courts they have used. Our bookings are very encouraging and I am extremely satisfied with the final product and its earning potential for the years ahead.

In summary I would have absolutely no hesitation in recommending Paul and PRO Padel Courts unreservedly to anyone contemplating building padel courts.

Structure

The court enclosure is constructed with pillars at the bottom and sides measuring 100x50, with a thickness that aligns with specified requirements. At a height of 4 meters, corners are reinforced with structural plates and feature customized trims for a polished finish.

Both the steel components and the overall structure undergo a galvanization process, and a layer of baked epoxy polyester resin is applied for added protection and durability.

Paint

The metallic elements are coated with a thermosetting polyester powder paint formulated with polyester resins. This QUALICOAT certified finish, in the customer's desired color, provides these elements with excellent resistance to corrosion and ultraviolet rays, as well as high resistance to mechanical impacts.

In coastal and salty environments, we treat the structure with an additional two-coat primer system of pure epoxy, which is coated with either a powder or liquid finish.

Glass

Certified 10mm tempered glass is installed on 5mm neoprene to minimize vibrations and reduce the risk of breakage. The manufacturing process for all these tempered glasses follows a standardized production procedure in accordance with the UNE EN 12150-1 standard.

Structure

The court enclosure is comprised of a self-supporting structure featuring structural tubes, enclosed, and anchored with two upper and lower perimeter rings. The upper ring is constructed of structural tube, while the lower ring is made of structural plate.

Both the galvanized steel and the structure are coated with baked epoxy polyester resin for added durability and protection.

The galvanized electro-welded mesh, with dimensions of 50x50x4mm, is delivered without projections. Frames are formed with structural plates of thickness according to specifications. Additionally, there are two horizontal pipe cross pieces designed to prevent buckling, ensuring the structure maintains its integrity under weight.

Paint

The metallic elements are coated with a thermosetting polyester powder paint formulated with polyester resins. This QUALICOAT certified finish, in the customer's desired color, provides these elements with excellent resistance to corrosion and ultraviolet rays, as well as high resistance to mechanical impacts.

In coastal and salty environments, we treat the structure with an additional two-coat primer system of pure epoxy, which is coated with either a powder or liquid finish.

Glass

Approved 12mm tempered glass is used for the panoramic backdrops and side windows. For the side windows, the court has two large windows, each measuring 2x3m, identical in size to the backdrops or the traditional system. All are installed on 5mm neoprene to minimise vibrations and the risk of breakage.

The manufacturing process for all this tempered glass follows a standardised production process and complies with the UNE EN 12150-1 standard.
